Subject: MICROSOFT SETTLEMENT

Dear Sirs:

This E-mail is sent to urge you to hasten to a conclusion of the action against Microsoft. From what I have read on this matter, the tentative settlement which was reached some time ago seems like a reasonable approach.

As a consumer, I can very strongly state that I have not been hurt by Microsoft. Their products have been easy to use and are certainly fairly priced. As I understand, this area of law is supposed to protect consumers. The only way I have been hurt is that way too many of my tax dollars have been used to prosecute a company which, in my opinion, did not deserve prosecution.

Enough is enough. I thank you for taking the time to read my input.

Very respectfully,

George H. Darfus
